Art Unit: 2627

In response to applicant's amendment dated January 11, 2007. The following action is taken:

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2, 5, 6, 8, 9, 12, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Satoh et al (4545044) in view of the admitted prior art.

The independent claims are not drawn to detecting exclusively a writable area by excluding other areas such as; the header or servo areas. Therefore, the limitation "writable area" read on detecting any recorded data on the disk. The reference shows the use of an optical disk recording and reproducing apparatus comprising: a waveform rectification unit for comparing the RF signal to a reference value 35 and 36, a pulse generating signal based on the compared value (element f or 33 in fig 11), a latching unit for latching the pulse 40 and a data detection unit based on the latching signal see fig 11 element g inputted to a data bus and controlled by element 13. However the reference does not disclose the use of user area having a writable and non-writable area. Such modification is shown in the admitted prior art as being well established limitations in the art. Thus it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the teachings of the admitted prior art and modify the system of the primary reference. Such modification is well known in the art as a standard disk having a writable and non-writable areas and thus a more versatile disk.

With respect to the limitations of claims 5, 6, 12 and 13, the use of a D flip flop and AND gates within the latching circuit is merely inherently present.

Claims 3, 4, 7, 10, 11 and 14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

None of the cited prior art shows or teaches an optical disk having a first pulse signal by evenly dividing the rectified signal and a second pulse generator having the pulse width extended for a sync signal.

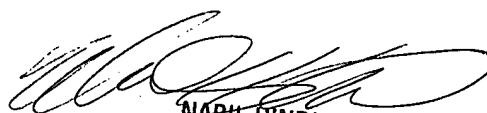

Applicant's arguments filed January 11, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments regarding the newly added limitations in the claims are merely well established limitations. The admitted prior art shows the use of a disk having a writable and non-writable area on the disk. Thus such limitations are known and obvious to one skilled in the art.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 2627

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
